

Wednesday, 8 July 2009

MEDIA RELEASE

Alliance supports Yarra Glen Toy Library

The Sugarloaf Pipeline Alliance has donated $2000 to the Yarra Glen Toy Library for educational toys, puzzles and games.

The Toy Library, which services families in Yarra Glen and its surrounds, provides quality educational items that aim to help the development of young children.

Presenting the cheque to Yarra Glen Toy Library Coordinator, Catherine Power, Alliance Community Relations Coordinator Claire Garth said the Alliance is proud to sponsor this initiative because it encourages families to spend quality time playing with their children.

"The Alliance is keen to assist local communities along the pipeline route and this donation will contribute to the education and enjoyment of many young children," Ms Garth said.

Ms Power welcomed the Alliance's donation saying that it will help upgrade many of the much loved toys as well as enable the library to purchase new toys.

Some of the toys include new Lego sets, musical instruments, and a party pack including a table and chairs, a slide, various games and a bubble machine.

Ms Power said purchasing toys is an ongoing expense and the Alliance's donation helped the Toy Library keep up to date with the latest toys.

The Sugarloaf Pipeline project has laid more than two-thirds of the pipe and reinstatement works have commenced in three areas.

The project remains on budget and ahead of schedule.

For any information regarding the Yarra Glen Toy Library please contact Catherine Power on (03) 5964 9210.

Media Contact: Denise Hurley on (03) 9727 8405 or 0437 359 400

---

About the Sugarloaf Pipeline Alliance

The Sugarloaf Pipeline project is part of the Victorian Government's plan to save, create and share water in the face of drought and climate change. Melbourne Water, GHD, SKM and John Holland are working as an alliance to deliver this $750 million project, which will link the Goulburn River near Yea with the Sugarloaf Reservoir.